FRANKFORT ROUNDABOUT

Entered at the post-office at Frankfort, Kentucky as second class mailable matter.

GEORGE A. LEWIS.

Editor and Publisher.

FRANKFORT, DECEMBER 9, 1882.

Correspondents will please give all the news of their neighborhood, and avoid as far as possible inserting matter that is not interesting to anyone but themselves.

Hon. E. H. Taylor, jr., a few months since, paid the city every cent he owed her, with interest from the spring of 1877 up to the present time. In addition to this he has paid, within the last twelve months, other indebtedness incurred about the same time to the amount of twenty odd thousand dollars. He had been released by law from the payment of all of the above, but felt in honor bound to liquidate them.

Death of Edgar Keenon.

Mr. Edgar Keenon, formerly of this city, died suddenly on Monday night, at his home in Covington, of cerebro spinal meningitis, in the 49th year of his age. The deceased was the second son of Mr. A. C. Keenon, of this county, and spent the most of his life in this city. In 1877 he removed to Covington, where he has since held the position of Government Storekeeper. He leaves a wife and six children to mourn his loss. His funeral was attended by the revenue officers of the Fifth District in a body.

In tinkering up the city charter last winter the gentlemen who engineered the job lost sight of the fact that three School Trustees had to be elected, and failed to fix the time for their election at the same time with the City Council, and a separate election has to be held on the first Saturday in January to select three gentlemen to fill those positions. A question will come up at that time which the patched up charter does not provide for, and that is, who are entitled to vote? Every legal voter or only those who have paid their taxes and registered? If it is free for all it will be a lively one, as those who were shut out last Saturday will be certain to be on hand.

If there is one thing this country is cursed with it is a multiplicity of elections. The excitement of one is hardly over before another comes on, and a number of the quiet, order loving citizens have become disgusted and stay away from the polls.

The Pistol.

A difficulty occurred, Monday about 12 o'clock, in the office of the Western Union Telegraph Company, between Mr. Chas. E. Taylor, manager of the telegraph office, and Mr. Frank G. Montgomery, formerly assistant telegraph operator, but now manager of the telephone exchange, in which pistol shots were exchanged. The left arm of Taylor was broken near the elbow by Montgomery's shot, while the ball from Taylor's pistol inflicted a slight wound in the right arm of Montgomery. Both men attempted to fire a second time, but their weapons failing to go off, they clinched each other, and were scuffling when Mr. John Griffin and officers Smith and Noonan ran in and separated them. They were both arrested and placed under bond to appear at an examining trial.

There had been no good feeling existing between the two for some time, and the difficulty was not unlooked for.

Drs. B. F. Duval and J. L. Price dressed Mr. Taylor's wound and hope to save his arm, but he is suffering a great deal of pain though doing as well as possible under the circumstances. Mr. Montgomery's wound is in the fleshy part of the arm and causes him no inconvenience. The examining trial will probably not take place for several days.

Andrew Kirkpatrick, a bricklayer, while intoxicated Monday night, was standing on the pavement in front of the Gas Works, talking to several parties, and in course of the conversation he drew out a pistol and began flourishing it around when it went off, the ball striking a colored man by the name of Harry Jackson, who was standing near, in the right thigh, inflicting a dangerous wound. Kirkpatrick was arrested and placed in jail but was released on bond the next morning. It was reported Wednesday that Jackson's wound had produced lock-jaw and he was in a dying condition, but it proved to be false.

Mr. John Grinstead, Louisville, Ky., says: "I used Brown's Iron Bitters in my family with highly beneficial results."

Mr. Thos. Heffner, sr., has on exhibition the heads of several fine salmon caught by Gen. Green Clay Smith in Red river.

The attention of grocers and others who handle powder is called to the city ordinance published in another column. It goes into effect to-morrow.

We have received from Messrs. John P. Morton & Co., the Western Farmer's Almanac for 1883. It is as full as ever of useful information.

Robert Loomis, colored, for forty years an employe about the State House square, has been discharged. The excuse given is, that having but one hand, he could not work fast enough. In view of the fact that his other hand was lost in the faithful discharge of his duties, it strikes us that it would have been more charitable to have retained him and borne with his slowness, especially as he is fully as able now to attend to his duties as he has been for the last four or five years.

The examining trial of Eli Gardner, charged with the murder of the colored man, George Grayson, on the Versailles pike, Thanksgiving day, took place at the Court-house Thursday, before Esquires McDonald and Bohannon, and resulted in Gardner being held over to the Circuit Court in the sum of $250, which he gave and was released from jail. County Attorney Violet represented the Commonwealth, while Gen. John Rodman and John L. Scott, Esq., appeared for the defense.

Thursday afternoon, about one o'clock, a young man by the name of Slack, son of J. P. Slack, of Louisville, the gentleman who recently purchased the farm of the late Timothy Hughes, near Midway, arrived in this city, from Louisville, driving a loaded two-horse wagon, with a phaeton lashed on behind, drove up to Mr. Geo. B. Macklin's office and requested Mr. Macklin, who was an old friend of his father's, to loan him two dollars, as he had run out of money. Mr. Macklin went back into the house for the money, leaving the young man sitting on the wagon. In a few moments after he was seen by persons passing to straighten himself up, and after uttering a groan, rolled off the wagon to the ground. In the fall his head struck the curb, rendering him insensible, in which condition he was carried across the street to Drs. Smith & Brown's office. Upon examination Dr. Smith found the skull was not fractured, and after dressing the wound, the young man was taken to the Capital Hotel, where he fully recovered consciousness, and was able to go on to his destination the next day. It is not known what caused him to fall, as he was not intoxicated, although a small bottle of whisky partly empty was found in his pocket.

Mary Thomas, Louisville, Ky., writes: "One bottle of Brown's Iron Bitters was sufficient to give me instant relief from neuralgia."
